INCOME MAP

High Ridge Missouri is located in Jefferson County and is a Census-Designated Place. It is about 40 minutes southwest of Downtown St Louis. Important roads for High Ridge are Highway 30, Antire Road, State Highway PP, High Ridge Blvd and others.

High Ridge is unincorporated, despite several attempts from the 1960s forward to form a city. Northeast Jefferson County, including High Ridge, has been cited by University of Missouri geography professor emeritus Walter F. Schroeder as a “grand experiment” in governance by taxing districts, in which functions normally performed by a municipality (fire, sewer, ambulance, and water) are instead controlled by elected district trustees, with other functions (police, planning and zoning, roads, real estate matters) left to county-wide ordinance, with the tradeoff being lower taxes than an incorporated region. This “experiment” was not planned, but is a result of the reluctance of long-time residents in the face of urbanization, and the antipathy of post-WWII and post-Korea settlers against the large urban governments from which most came.

Residents of High Ridge are served by the Northwest School District. The district has 6 elementary schools, Woodridge Middle and Valley Middle Schools and Northwest High School.
